PURPOSE AND OUTCOME Course Overview

This course is designed to introduce students who are interested in pursuing careers in fields related to human communication to sound and auditory perception. The course is organized around three major topic areas:

- 1) Sound: How it is generated, propagated, and described
- 2) Structure and function of the human auditory system
- 3) Perceptual processes involving nonspeech and speech signals

Course Objectives:

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Explain how nonspeech and speech signals are generated and propagated
- Analyze and describe acoustic waveforms and spectrograms
- Compute or derive measurements of amplitude, frequency, phase, and time for acoustic signals
- Describe structures and functions of the human auditory system from the pinna to the cortex
- Explain the role that complex auditory functions had in the evolution of language for the species and have in the development of language for the individual
- Explain categorical speech perception
- Evaluate research reports and critically assess quality of the science presented in those reports
- Write a review of a research report with correct referencing

Instructional Method: Lectures, readings

This course will use blended learning, which is a composite of face-to-face meetings and recorded lectures. The recorded lectures provide the student with the opportunity to review the material at the rate and with the repetition that matches individual learning needs. Each student is responsible for interacting with the course content to the extent required to reach mastery. Instructional staff are available to support student learning, as requested.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Assignments

1. Lectures: This is a hybrid course. Some lectures will be in person and some will be online. The student is responsible for watching all lectures and taking notes. The student is responsible for communicating with the instructional staff when there is a problem with comprehension.
2. Reading: The student is responsible for reading all assigned material. Test questions can be asked on any material from assigned chapters.
3. Computational practice: The student is responsible for completing all assigned practices and checking answers against answer sheets provided. Similar problems will be found on tests.
4. Written Papers: The journal article review will count for 10% of the student's grade. The journal article to be reviewed will be assigned. A guide for the review paper is provided in the Assignments section of Canvas, as well as a scoring rubric. An essay on how this course will help your career objectives will count for 10% of the student's grade.

Thus, grades will consist of:

10%: Two quizzes will be worth 50 points each

60%: Four exams will be worth 150 points each

10%: Review Paper

20%: Final Exam

SUPPORT SERVICES Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

If you require classroom accommodation because of a disability, it is strongly recommended you register with the Disability Resource Center within the first week of class or as soon as you believe you might be eligible for accommodations. The Disability Resource Center will provide documentation of accommodations to you, which you must then give to me as the instructor of the course to receive accommodations. Please do this as soon as possible after you receive the letter. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester. The College is committed to providing reasonable accommodations to assist students in their coursework.

Inclusive Learning Environment

Public health and health professions are based on the belief in human dignity and on respect for the individual. As we share our personal beliefs inside or outside of the classroom, it is always with the understanding that we value and respect diversity of background, experience, and opinion, where every individual feels valued. We believe in, and promote, openness and tolerance of differences in ethnicity and culture, and we respect differing personal, spiritual, religious and political values. We further believe that celebrating such diversity enriches the quality of the educational experiences we provide our students and enhances our own personal and professional relationships. We embrace The University of Florida's NonDiscrimination Policy, which reads, "The University shall actively promote equal opportunity policies and practices conforming to laws against discrimination. The University is committed to non-discrimination with respect to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, genetic information and veteran status as protected under the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act." If you have questions or concerns about your rights and responsibilities for inclusive learning environment, please see your instructor or refer to the Office of Multicultural & Diversity Affairs website: www.multicultural.ufl.edu

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A "class lecture" is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.
