II. Course description

The purpose of this course is to provide students with a scientific understanding of the nature of right hemisphere syndrome, TBI, and dementia. Students will also learn how to apply this knowledge in a clinical setting during the entire continuum of care.

Students will learn through assigned readings, lectures, discussion, and interactive class activities. Clinical case presentations, including case history, neurological exam results, behavioral symptoms, and lesion information will be used to explore clinically relevant issues and to develop skills for differential diagnosis and treatment approaches.

The content of this course is designed to help you meet the following clinical standards:

Standard IV-B: Knowledge of basic human communication processes, including their biological, neurological, acoustic, psychological, developmental, and linguistic and cultural bases.

Standard IV-C: Knowledge of the etiologies, characteristics, anatomical/physiological, acoustic, psychological, developmental, and linguistic and cultural correlates of receptive and expressive language.

- Cognitive aspects of communication, including attention, memory, sequencing, problem solving, and executive functioning

Standard IV-D: Knowledge of the principles and methods of prevention, assessment, and intervention for people with acquired language disorders including consideration of anatomical/physiological, psychological, and linguistic and cultural correlates of the disorder.

Standard IV-E: Knowledge of ethical issues as they pertain to the clinical management of individuals with acquired language disorders.

Standard IV-F: Knowledge of the processes used in research and the integration of research principles into evidence-based clinical practice for individuals with adult language disorders.

Standard IV-G: Knowledge of contemporary professional issues pertaining to the nature and treatment of acquired language disorders.

Standard V-A: Skills in oral and written communication sufficient for entry into clinical practice.

III. Course Objectives. At the completion of the course, you will be able to...

- Explain the anatomical and physiological bases of traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.
- Explain the factors that contribute to traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias, including etiology, lesion site, neurological symptoms, speech/language/ cognitive symptoms, as well as bilingual and multicultural factors to consider.
- Explain common basic assessment tools used in individuals with traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias to determine differential diagnosis of traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.

- Explain contemporary treatment approaches that guide appropriate, theoretically sound treatment paradigms for traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.
- Explain the cognitive issues and associated outcomes observed in traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.
- Explain contemporary neuroimaging approaches and how they are commonly used in the diagnosis and prognosis of traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.
- Explain how the principles of neuroplasticity can be applied to rehabilitation of traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias.
- Explain the relevant literature related to traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias that guides evidence-based practice.
- Explain the psychosocial impact of traumatic brain injury, normal aging, right hemisphere disorders and the dementias on individuals with the condition and their relevant stakeholders.

- We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity."

You are expected to exhibit behavior consistent with this commitment to the UF academic community, and on all work submitted for credit at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied:

- On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”

It is your individual responsibility to know and comply with all university policies and procedures regarding academic integrity and the Student Honor Code. Violations of the Honor Code at the University of Florida will not be tolerated. Violations will be reported to the Dean of Students Office for consideration of disciplinary action. Recording Within the Course:

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

Guests Attending Class:

Only registered students are permitted to attend class. However, we recognize that students who are caretakers may face occasional unexpected challenges creating attendance barriers. Therefore, by exception, a department chair or his or her designee (e.g., instructors) may grant a student permission to bring a guest(s) for a total of two class sessions per semester. This is two sessions total across all courses. No further extensions will be granted. Please note that guests are not permitted to attend either cadaver or wet labs. Students are responsible for course material regardless of attendance. For additional information, please review the Classroom Guests of Students policy in its entirety. Inclusive Learning Environment

Public health and health professions are based on the belief in human dignity and on respect for the individual. As we share our personal beliefs inside or outside of the classroom, it is always with the understanding that we value and respect diversity of background, experience, and opinion, where every individual feels valued. We believe in, and promote, openness and tolerance of differences in ethnicity and culture, and we respect differing personal, spiritual, religious and political values. We further believe that celebrating such diversity enriches the quality of the educational experiences we provide our students and enhances our own personal and professional relationships. We embrace The University of Florida's Non-Discrimination Policy, which reads, "The University shall actively promote equal opportunity policies and practices conforming to laws against discrimination. The University is committed to non-discrimination with respect to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, genetic information and veteran status as protected under the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act." If you have questions or concerns about your rights and responsibilities for inclusive learning environment, please see your instructor or refer to the Office of Multicultural & Diversity Affairs website: www.multicultural.ufl.edu
